

Biographical Information

Daniel "DJ" Andrews, Jr.

Daniel Andrews is the principal of Andrews Training and Communications Consultancy, a private human services consulting practice that specializes in the development of fatherhood curriculums, training, technical assistance and design and implementation of social marketing campaigns for non-profits and fatherhood programs. Prior to starting ATCC, Daniel was employed as a trainer and project manager for 2 prominent national fatherhood organizations. Since the inception of ATCC in 2002, Daniel has trained more than 5000 Head Start staff, parents and directors. Trainings have been in the areas of male and father involvement and motivation of staff to reach their maximum potential. Just recently Daniel was the keynote speaker for region 3's first ever fatherhood conference. Almost 500 people attended the conference. Also, Daniel was the featured keynote speaker at the West Virginia Head Start Association annual winter conference and the Pennsylvania Head Start Association annual spring conferences.

Daniel is producing a video titled " Healing the Wounds of Father Absence", which will cover six principles that can be used by anyone to begin a personal healing process from the damages of father absence. At ATCC, Daniel works as a consultant for several organizations locally and nationally. Daniel continues to provide quality training and consulting for the National Head Start Association and many other Head Start agencies around the country. And last and most importantly, Daniel has been married for 10 years and is the father of 2 fantastic children.